ANSWER KEY / VERDICT

The missing pin was sheltered, not sold

Jules moved the brass pin from the booth case to the locked dry-item drawer after a roof leak. It was a rule-breaking protective move, not a proven theft. Jules should return the object to the coordinator and report the leak.

Discuss: Which clues did both players contribute? Was any inference based on an assumption rather than a written exhibit?

ANSWER KEY / CLOCKS

Two corrections

A02 runs three minutes fast, so OPEN 18:10 and CLOSED 18:11 mean 18:07 and 18:08. B01 kiosk runs three minutes slow, so the 18:10 printed receipt is a purchase at 18:13, after the case opened. The printed alibi does not cover 18:07.

Discuss: Which clues did both players contribute? Was any inference based on an assumption rather than a written exhibit?

ANSWER KEY / CROSS-CHECK

Why the accounts fit

A01 places key K-1 with Jules 18:06-18:08. A03 keeps Sam on stage 18:06-18:09, two minutes away. B02 logs Jules' packet in the dry-item drawer at 18:09, labelled with the pin's distinctive triangle and pad. B03 mentions the leak and order not to touch displays; together these clues support a rule-breaking protective move.

Discuss: Which clues did both players contribute? Was any inference based on an assumption rather than a written exhibit?

YOU SOLVED THE RAINCHECK PIN

Continue with a different mystery

THANK YOU

This short case is complete. Your verdict does not require a purchase, an account or any additional material.

PAID FULL CASE

The Bellglass Interval is a separate, deeper museum-theft mystery. Two investigators receive eight different exhibits each, compare clocks, challenge alibis, and trace a missing original. Four optional hints and a separate answer are included.

PROPOSED PRICE

USD $12. This is a planned test price, not an active checkout. Actual human play length and satisfaction are not yet verified.

PURCHASE ADDRESS

Not available yet: the full case is a pre-release QA candidate. We will put an actual verified itch.io product link here only after blind playtests and checkout/file delivery are confirmed.

BEFORE YOU BUY

English, exactly two adult players, digital PDFs for screens or optional A4/US Letter printing. Each case has one known solution; replaying the same mystery has limited surprise.

SEND YOUR PRIVATE PLAYTEST FEEDBACK

dlaepdfuf89+bellglass@gmail.com

Finished or stopped early? Either is useful. Include device, time, the first sticking point, both players' contributions, and optional-hint use.

Check the current release status (no paid checkout available yet):

https://dlaepdfuf89-crypto.github.io/bellglass-mysteries/